

UK Draught Beers

Welcome to the UK real ale bar.

This year we will have more beers than ever before at Ealing Beer Festival, more than 350 at time of writing, although this is always subject to last minute changes. There should be something to suit all tastes, with beers ranging from 2.5% ABV all the way up to 10.5%. As ever, the range is a variety of returning friends and new faces making their Ealing debut.

For the first time ever at Ealing Beer Festival, we will have beers from Ealing. The Ealing Park Tavern is now brewing their own beers under the Longarm name and will be represented by three beers. Other local brews will be Aeronaut and Dragonfly from Acton and the ever popular Weird Beard from Hanwell. From south of the river, we will have beer from the new Kew Brewery at, erm, Kew.

The past few years have seen an explosion in the number small breweries starting up, not least in London. We be featuring a few of the London ones but not going overboard on it. There will also be several from both Kent and the West Country.

You may notice that we have quite a lot of beers from Twickenham Fine Ales. In fact it will be the largest number of their beers ever assembled in one place.

Once again, our friends at XT have produced a special beer for the festival. As has now become the tradition, it will be a fruit beer. This year, cherries got the nod.

Fruit beers are increasingly popular at Ealing Beer Festival, we have crammed in as many as we can but have had to stretch the definition of “fruit” in a number of cases – nettles, anyone?

Following requests in previous years, a couple of gluten free beers have been included. As chance would have it, these are at opposite ends of the, rather long, bar.

A few words on how it all works. The beers are arranged roughly alphabetically across three bars, each of which is named for one our friends in breweryland. A few may appear in odd places, often because they were late replacements so a little juggling may be required. We do not hold beer back. Once one becomes drinkable it will display an A4 label, an indication that it is available. The labels come in a variety of colours, roughly matching the dots you will find in the tasting notes which follow and indicating which style of beer lurks within. There is a key below.

Finally. A quick word of thanks all of those involved in the whole process of selecting, ordering, preparing and serving the real ales at Ealing Beer Festival’s 26th incarnation. All are volunteers and without them it simply wouldn’t happen.

Finally finally, another word of thanks to all of you, who turn up and drink the beer for us. You are the whole point of the festival and I hope you have a great time.

Cheers

 Stout – 5.0%

Give yourself to the dark side and allow yourself to be beckoned towards this velvety, silky stout seducer. This dark, devilish enticer has a rich, deep character that packs a chocolatey and nutty hit. Be careful because when you do succumb, it'll disarm you with its complex flavours swirled up by the moreish malty layers.

 Lager – 5.0%

Clean, crisp and dry, it bubbles with spritzzy character. It's 'lagered' with love, care and patience meaning that it develops through a long, slow maturation in tank, allowing uncompromised, full-frontal flavours to shine through.

 American IPA - 5.5%

Bold, brazen, ballsy and brewed with American prized hops, this IPA has the volume turned up to just the right level without the hops being overwhelmingly deafening. Prepare to be dazzled by a stunning explosion of exotic citrus fruits and grapefruit, before a gripping, piney finish that'll have you diving back for more.

BRAINS - Cardiff, Glamorgan

 Dark - 3.4%

A skilful blend of dark and chocolate malts, gives this rich dark mild a full fine flavour. This beer has a delicate hop and chocolate aroma while the palate starts malty with a slight nuttiness, but then gives way to a light dry finish.
